Dear Sir or Madam,

We have the honour of addressing you with this preliminary letter of invitation for the 13th International Congress of Thracology, to be held in the town of Kazanlak, Bulgaria, in September 2017, under the general heading Ancient Thrace: Myth and Reality.

You are warmly encouraged to forward this letter to any of your contacts who you think might be interested, and to suggest to us people and institutions whose addresses we could include in our mailing list for further congress correspondence.

Details on the exact dates of the congress and the conditions for participation will be announced later in a first circular letter, and will be published in due time on the site of the congress now in preparation.

The Organizing Committee
